

Masao Hisano
Senior Manager, Corporate Planning; All Nippon Airways (ANA)

Mr. Masao Hisano graduated from Waseda University in 1978, with a degree in electrical engineering, and began working in flight operations, engineering, for All Nippon Airways in 1978. He has held a variety of positions within ANA, including flight operations and performance, engineering representatives, senior manager of technical services, deputy director of both international relations (marketing) and Aircraft purchasing and sales, director of flight operations-engineering, and deputy director for CSR promotion, which included his participation in the ICAO assembly, CAEP SG and GMTF as an adviser of the Japanese government. He took his current role of senior manager for corporate planning and CSR Promotion ANAHD in 2016. From 2006-2011 He lead the ANA Group Efficient Flight Operations Program, as a member and director of the Flight Operations Engineering. He also has been a part-time lecturer at his alma mater, Waseda University, in 2011 and from 2013-2015.