
Kenneth Kiesnoski

*Editor, Destinations & Special Supplements
Travel Weekly*

Kenneth Kiesnoski is Editor for Destinations and Special Supplements at Travel Weekly, the leading weekly trade newspaper for the U.S. travel and tourism industries. He manages both on-staff and freelance writing talent, assigning, writing and editing feature stories and news articles on 25 different worldwide regional and topical beats, including Asia. Kiesnoski has been covering the travel and tourism market for more than a decade, starting his career at the former Leisure Travel News in 2001. He served as Travel Weekly's senior editor covering Europe and Mexico from August 2001 to November 2005, before being promoted to management. Kiesnoski first visited Japan in 2011, traveling to the country twice: once with the JNTO on a post-tsunami and -earthquake familiarization tour and then again to cover All Nippon Airways' debut of its new Boeing 787 Dreamliner aircraft.
