

Lysa C. Scully

General Manager of LaGuardia Airport, The Port Authority of New York & New Jersey

With more than 30 years of business experience at the Port Authority, Lysa is the chief executive of LaGuardia Airport, ranked the United States 20th largest airport. She leads a team of 400 staff in the operation, maintenance and development of the airport with the mission to provide a safe, secure, and quality customer experience for the traveling public, and a great workplace for on-airport employees. Lysa must ensure the continuity of airport operations while overseeing investment of more than $8 billion to create a 21st century airport for New York. Preceding her appointment as General Manager in 2013, she served as the Airport Deputy General Manager. In addition to her airport leadership roles, Lysa spent thirteen years as a senior executive in the Aviation corporate offices, where she delivered the iconic Customer Care brand and Customer Service Standards Programs that are a hallmark of Port Authority airports.

Prior to joining the Aviation sector, Lysa demonstrated her leadership in a wide range of other business areas at the Port Authority, including serving a two-year appointment as Corporate Secretary of the Agency, an elected officer.

Lysa has an MBA in Finance from Pace University, a BS in Accounting from Rutgers University, and an Airport Certified Employee (ACE) designation from the American Association of Airport Executives.
